Industries Here Look For Good '57

Favorable '56 Saw Best Year For China Co.; Eljer, Bliss Expand

By RAY DEAN

Salem's diversified industries are entering 1957 with a high degree of optimism, a survey of the city's principal manufacturers reveals.

Although a few industrial and business leaders were a little reserved in their predictions for the new year, most were forthright in their observations that 1957 should equal, and in some instances, surpass the achievements of the past 12 months.

There were a few "soft spots" on the local industrial scene in 1956, but these were overshadowed by stronger trends in most of the plants generally. The overall employment averaged 5,800.

The past year, for example, was the biggest year in the 58-year history of the Salem China Company. Production and shipments of chinaware were 40 per cent ahead of 1955.

Plant expansions were started or completed by the E. W. Bliss Company, the China Company, the Electric Furnace Company and the Eljer Division of the Murray Corp. of America.

The Bliss Company's Rolling Mill Division here increased the size of its erection shop last year and a "second phase" expansion is planned during the coming 12 months.

The largest expansion project was begun by Eljer, the nation's second largest producer of plumbing fixtures, with a plant addition to cost $2,500,000. Structural steel work on the new facilities was begun two months ago and when completed will provide 133,000 square feet of additional space. Enameling, shipping and inspection departments will be expanded.

Officials of both Eljer and Bliss look for increased employment in their plants during the new year.

In this connection, Arthur S. Johnston, manager of the local office of the Ohio State Employment Service, revealed that the year just ended was the lowest since World War II in the number of unemployment claims and also in the number of jobless weeks paid.

Mr. Johnston, whose office also is a job placement bureau for area industries, said "I have every reason to believe that 1957 will be as good as last year and probably better. Salem is fortunate, too, to be in the strategic northeastern Ohio area which already has attracted a considerable number of new industries. Our vulnerable spot is a possible shortage of skilled manual and office workers and we ought to begin now to train these people who are in short supply."

"General Motors' establishment of its gigantic new factory at Lordstown, 20 miles north of here, will affect Salem and other adjacent communities," he added.

Speaking for local businesses generally, A. G. Tame, president, and Castle Smith, executive secretary of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, shared the industrialists' optimism for the year '57.

"Salem will continue to march forward during the coming year and the Chamber will pursue an aggressive plan to attract new industries," they declared.

Specifically, the local industrial scene shapes up somewhat like this:

SALEM CHINA CO. Harrison Keller, president of the pottery, in reporting that 1956 was the firm's biggest year, said "shipments were 40 per cent ahead of the previous year and our payroll was 30 per cent above the last year. We operated at relative capacity all year long, thanks to an aggressive sales staff and the zest of our workers."

Salem China also during 1956 started up its new tile division, providing jobs for an additional 35 to 40 people in the last half of the year. The glazed floor tile is produced now in 20 different colors, alternately, and although they are primarily for home bathroom floors, tiles are made for lobby facia and also outdoor facing.

The pottery during the past year, in addition to building the tile department section, finished a loading dock and enclosed a warehouse section capable of handling three truck-trailers and a freight car. Salem China will exhibit its new patterns at the Pittsburgh pottery and glass show Jan. 8-15.

"This year should be as good as the one just concluded," said Mr. Keller.

E. W. BLISS CO. George Perrault, vice president in charge of the Bliss Company's Rolling Mill Division here, said "1956 was not a record but it was one of our best and we expect 1957 to be even better as far as the rolling mill division is concerned."

Bliss increased the size of the erection shop with more than 16,000 square feet of additional space, some obsolete machine tools were replaced and others were supplemented during the year.

"The first phase of our expansion has been completed," Mr. Perrault said, "and our expanded erection shop has given us a profitable impact in clearing a bottleneck. We have a good backlog of orders for Bliss rolling mill equipment and our business is favorably divided between domestic and foreign. Everything points to a good year ahead, with employment running about 10 per cent above 1956," he concluded.

THE ELJER DIVISION of Murray Corporation, L. A. Bateman, division manager, said "We expect a continuation of the highly competitive conditions experienced in the plumbing fixture business during the last year, but we are confident that our operations here will be at a high level throughout all of 1957."

Eljer's current expansion project at its modern cast iron enamelware factory is costing $2,500,000 and when finished within the next year will enable the company to increase its manufacturing operations considerably.

Increased employment by several hundred persons is predicted. Louis Probst of Salem is vice president in charge of the entire Eljer operation.

THE DEMING COMPANY. Walter F. Deming, president of the pump-manufacturing concern, envisions a good year immediately ahead.

"Volume-wise we were down slightly from 1955 during the last year, but this fact is lending an increased incentive for all of us for the new year."

"Industrial business should improve; irrigation is becoming a farm necessity and if housing starts increase and the international situation remains stable we should be able to get our share, or more, of the available pump business," Mr. Deming said.

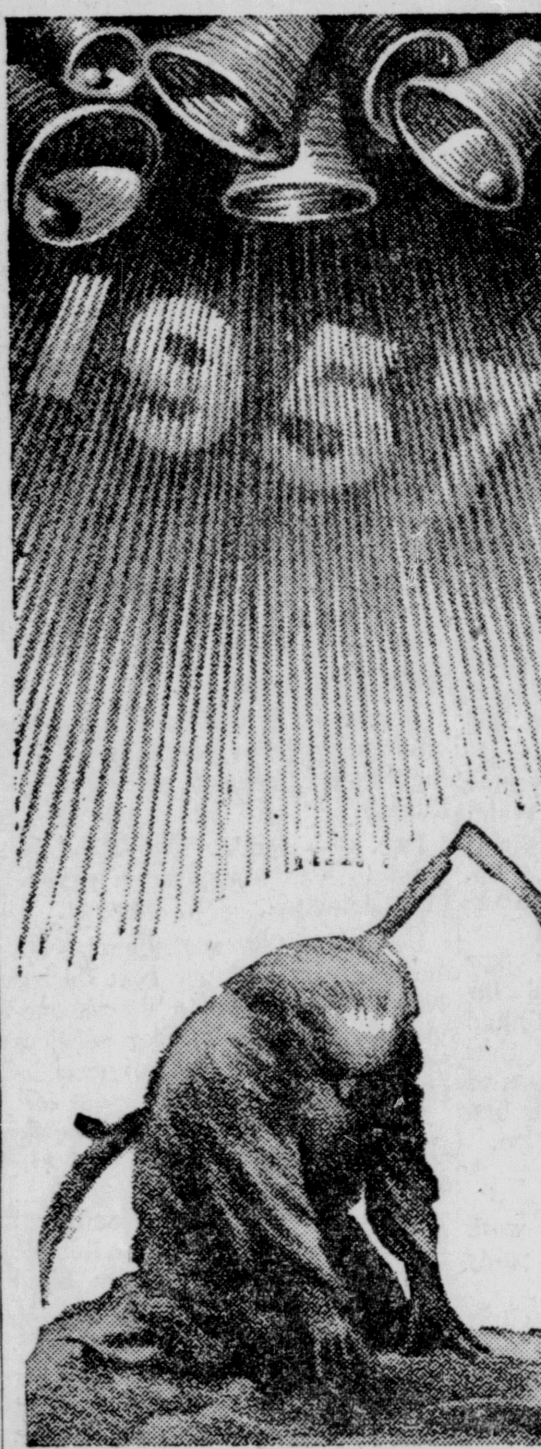

YOUNGSTOWN KITCHENS DIVISION of American-Standard Corp., formerly Mullins, George E. Whitlock, president of Youngstown Kitchens, thinks 1957 will be better than '56, which he termed as "hedge."

"This was caused largely by a downward trend in new homes construction to which the company is a major supplier, and also due to the highly competitive situation that exists in the home appliance field," he said.

Late in the year it became necessary to reduce operations on the Youngstown Kitchens production lines in order to keep a balanced inventory, but Whitlock announced that a new kitchen is being made ready for showing in Chicago at the winter market and at the National Association of Home Builders in January.

He said reception to the kitchen during field testing has been excellent. "It is anticipated that production of the new kitchens will serve to increase sales and employment in 1957," Whitlock concluded.

The firm's contract stamping business remains normal and excellent.

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light:
The year is dying in the night;
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring, happy bells, across the snow:
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more;
Ring out the feud of rich and poor,
Ring in redress to all mankind.

Ring out a slowly dying cause,
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler modes of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right,
Ring in the common love of good.

13 Die In Ohio Road Accidents

Toll Runs Far Below Last Holiday Period

By The Associated Press

Ohio moved into the final 24 hours of its year-end holiday Tuesday with traffic deaths far below the total of 40 registered for the Christmas season.

Thus far, an Associated Press survey shows 13 persons have died in traffic accidents in the state since 6 p.m. Friday. The survey ends at midnight Tuesday.

Only deaths in that period from traffic accidents happening in that period are counted.

In addition to the traffic deaths, at least three other persons died in miscellaneous accidents, one in a fire, one from electrocution and another, a five-year-old girl, drowned in a bathtub.

During the four-day count of highway fatalities in the Christmas period, a total of 27 persons had died in traffic through Monday of the survey period.

More Stay at Home

One factor keeping the death toll down below the Christmas rate, authorities said, is the fact that more people stay at home during the New Year's period than during the Christmas holidays. There has been some bad weather, with hazardous highways, during the past few days, and that is another factor which may have prompted more motorists to stay at home rather than risk the roads.

In the early part of the New Year's survey—on Saturday—the only multiple death from an accident was near Warren where John Summers Jr., 19, and his wife, Susan Kay, 18, were killed when their car collided with a coal truck.

Icy Highways Blamed

Icy highways were blamed in part for at least three of the highway fatalities during the week-end.

Candidates Must File For Primary By Feb. 6

Pre-primary election maneuvering will begin within the next few weeks as candidates eye the 1957 municipal election that lies ahead.

The deadline for candidates to file with the board of elections for the May 7 primaries is Feb. 6.

All City Hall offices, except that of auditor, will be at stake this year. Salem will elect a mayor, Council president, solicitor, treasurer, four ward councilmen and three councilmen-at-large.

The only holdover is Mrs. Helen

Spike Driven Into Skull Of Boy, 6

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (P)—The head of a 16 pennyweight spike was imbedded in the skull of 6-year-old Michael Loggie Monday in a freak accident while he was playing in his basement.

The spike removed, Michael was undergoing X-ray examination at Ohio Valley Hospital Monday night to determine the seriousness of his injury.

Michael was riding a toy tractor in the basement when the accident occurred. He had tied a rope between his tractor and the spike which was driven into the top of a 6-foot length of 4 by 4 wood, used as a support for the first floor of the house.

Suddenly, Michael explained later, the post toppled over and the spike head drove into his head.

His mother, Mrs. Frank Loggie Jr., called police and firemen who hauled the post in two with a hatchet to free the spike.

Then Michael was rushed to the hospital where the spike was removed from his head.

Mrs. Loggie estimated the spike had gone a quarter inch into Michael's skull.

The boy was fully conscious while the firemen and police took the spike from the post and one fireman later expressed his admiration:

"The kid never cried once."

Elections will be held this year in three other cities in the county, four major villages, five villages under 2,000 population, 18 townships, 17 school districts, and the county board of education.

The Feb. 6 filing deadline, however, applies only to office-seekers in the eight cities and villages scheduled to hold primaries in May when party candidates are named for the Nov. 5 general election, the board of elections points out. They are Salem, East Palestine, East Liverpool, Wellsville, Lisbon and Leetonia, Columbiana, Lisbon and Salineville villages.

Primaries Waived

In all other subdivisions, elections are on a nonpartisan basis and no primaries are held. Candidates in those subdivisions need not file until 90 days before the November general election, which makes the deadline Aug. 7.

Villages that elect on a nonpartisan basis are Washingtonville, Hanoverton, New Washington, Summitville and Rogers.

Townships affected are Perry, Salem, Butler, Center, Elk run, Fairfield, Franklin, Hanover, Knox, Liverpool, Madison, Middleton, St. Clair, Unity, Washington, Wayne, West and Yellow Creek.

School districts are: Salem, East Liverpool, East Palestine, Columbiana, Wellsville, Leetonia, Lisbon, Beaver Local, Fairfield-Waterford Local, Franklin Local, Negley Local, Salineville Local, Unity Local, United Local, Yellow Creek Local and the county board.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the County Election Board, emphasized that the nonpartisan candidates should not file until after the May primaries.

Independents

In addition to party candidates, the Feb. 6 deadline applies to those who plan to run as independents in the November election in the eight major cities and villages. Previously, independent candidates were permitted to file in the fall with the nonpartisans.

Two terms on the Salem Board of Education are expiring. They are

Saar Now Part Of W. Germany

French Give Up Coal-Rich Basin

SAARBRUECKEN, Tuesday (P)—The Saar became a part of West Germany Tuesday.

At the turn of the New Year, under terms of a French-German treaty signed last October, the 900-square-mile coal-rich basin joined West Germany politically as its 10th state.

It will be integrated economically by the end of 1959.

The Saar has been a pawn between France and Germany since the start of the 19th Century. Both countries sought control of its wealth of coal and steel.

After being pushed back and forth for years, the Saar finally was placed under the control of the League of Nations after World War I.

Returned To Nazis

In 1935 it was returned to Nazi Germany as the result of a plebiscite. But after World War II, the Saar acquired tight economic ties to France.

Then in 1955 the Saarlanders, still German-speaking, voted to return to Germany. The French-German agreement followed.

Here are some of the immediate effects of the treaty:

1. The Saar's nearly one million inhabitants, become citizens of West Germany.
2. The Saar comes under the laws and constitution of West Germany. Its citizens become subject to the draft.
3. Operation of the vast commonwealth.

Says Lausche Won't Finish Out Term

CLEVELAND (P)—A close political friend of Gov. Frank J. Lausche said Monday Lausche will be sworn in as a U.S. Senator before his term as governor expires Jan. 14.

Lausche has said repeatedly that he might not participate in the organization of the Senate, but would remain as governor until Gov. - Elect C. William O'Neill takes over.

His friend here told a reporter Lausche would not be sworn in when the Senate convenes Jan. 3 but would be sworn in "sometime before Jan. 14."

The friend asked that his name not be made public.

Lausche was scheduled to move out of the executive mansion in Columbus today.

Lausche could not be immediately reached for comment. But when questioned by reporters earlier Monday, he reiterated his position that he will remain as governor until Jan. 14.

explosives were found in a check of its 102 stories.

The hysteria generated by the city's "Mad Bomber" had led to a bomb scare at the world's tallest skyscraper last Saturday. Nothing was found then either.

The 2,000-man police force was having little luck rounding up the hoaxers. Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy warned:

"They will be dealt with firmly because they are in many ways hampering the search for the bomber."

Bomb Scares Spread

Meanwhile, the epidemic of bomb scares rippled across the nation, either coincidentally or as a result of the New York Mad Bomber's activities.

New Jersey continued to check false bomb reports, the latest in a Kearny apartment house and South Orange Railway Terminal.

In Kansas City, three transcontinental airliners were delayed when an anonymous caller told a reservations desk:

"I think you ought to know, there's a bomb on one of your planes going to Denver."

Fire Destroys Two Churches

Arson Seen Probable; 5 Million In Damage

HARTFORD, Conn. (P)—Furious shooting flames Monday wrecked the huge and historical St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Cathedral, Connecticut's largest. Damages were estimated at more than five million dollars by City Manager Carleton F. Sharpe.

The fire, the second in a Roman Catholic church in Hartford in 31 hours, brought from Fire Chief Henry G. Thomas the statement that "they have to be more than coincidence."

He added, however, there was no concrete evidence of arson.

Church officials said the building was insured for four million dollars.

The cathedral and St. Patrick's Church, destroyed by fire early Sunday morning, are little more than a mile apart in downtown Hartford.

Acting on the suspicion that an arsonist might be on the loose, Police Chief Michael J. Godfrey ordered police to guard every church and synagogue in Hartford, the state's capital.

Mayors in Bridgeport, New Haven and Waterbury, issued all most identical orders as "protective measures."

There are 13 Roman Catholic churches in Hartford now, and some 125 others of various denominations, including synagogues.

Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff offered police the full facilities of the state, including state police and National Guard units. Twenty state policemen were immediately transferred to Hartford.

About 100 persons were in St. Joseph's for the 7 a.m. mass when a faint haze of smoke seeping into a sanctuary gave warning that there was a fire. All got out without difficulty.

No one was in St. Patrick's when a policeman discovered the fire there about 12:30 a.m. Sunday.

Toll Running Much Below Yule Record

29 Die In Fires; Worst Of 4-Day Holiday Is Ahead

By The Associated Press

New Year holiday traffic deaths Monday were running considerably below the record Christmas weekend toll but the worst of the four-day period—New Year's Eve—was still ahead.

By 7 p.m. (CST), 245 persons had died in automobile accidents. There were 29 fire fatalities and 56 deaths in miscellaneous holiday accidents for an overall toll of 330.

By 7 p.m., last Monday, during the Christmas weekend, traffic accidents had claimed 467 lives.

The count of New Year holiday fatalities which commenced at 5 p.m. Friday, will continue until midnight Tuesday.

During a similar 102 hour Christmas period 706 persons lost their lives in traffic mishaps, a record for any holiday. Added to these were 54 who died in fires and 124 in nontraffic accidents for an over-all total of 884, also a record.

The National Safety Council estimated before the New Year holiday began that 490 lives would be lost in traffic over the long weekend. The record traffic toll for a New Year holiday is 407 during the four-day period of 1952-53.

The council has figured that between 35 and 40 million persons will be moving in vehicles during the New Year holiday compared with an estimated 45 million last weekend.

Forecast 490 Dead

The council's forecast of 490 traffic fatalities is fewer than were tallied by the Associated Press during a nonholiday four-day weekend period—Friday, Dec. 14 through midnight Tuesday, Dec. 18—when 500 were killed.

The toll by states, with traffic, fire and miscellaneous in that order, included:

Illinois 9 2 3; Indiana 7 0 0; Iowa 4 2 0; Kansas 3 0 0; Kentucky 8 2 0; Michigan 11 1 3; Minnesota 4 0 6; Missouri 9 1 1; North Dakota 1 0 0; Ohio 13 1 2; South Dakota 1 0 0; Tennessee 6 1 0; Wisconsin 8 0 0.

Railroad Fares To Be Increased

WASHINGTON (P)—The Interstate Commerce Commission Monday authorized further increases in charges for railroad passenger travel. It approved a nationwide 7 per cent hike in costs of interstate Pullman space plus an advance of 5 per cent in interstate passenger fares on some railroads.

The 5 per cent hike was approved for all lines operating west of the Mississippi River and for eight large Eastern railroads.

Author Falls Through Ice, Is Quickly Rescued

GARY, Ind. (P)—Nelson Algren, 47, hardboiled author of the best-selling novel, "The Man With the Golden Arm," crashed through a thin layer of ice into a lagoon Monday but was rescued a short time later.

Algren was taking a short cut through Marquette Park on Gary's Northeast Side on his way from a grocery store to his home when he fell into water estimated by firemen to be 20 feet deep.

A youth heard Algren's cries for help and summoned three brothers who were working on a house rebuilding job nearby. They tossed a rope to the novelist.

FINED IN LISBON

Mathias J. Kufelner, 44, of Winona, was fined $15 and costs by Lisbon Mayor Wilbur Warren Monday for driving left of center.

Kufelner was cited by the State Highway Patrol after he was involved in an accident on the Canton Hill, just west of Lisbon on Dec. 7.

Syria Warns U. S. Not To Rely On Military Force To Guard Middle East From Russians

WASHINGTON (P)—Syria warned the United States Monday against any new policy of relying on U.S. military force to guard the strategic Middle East from Russian aggression or subversion.

Ambassador Farid Zeineddine, acting on instructions from his government, proposed instead that the United States work mainly through the United Nations to maintain the uneasy Middle Eastern peace.

The Syrian action came as Secretary of State Dulles met in New York with top United Nations officials to explain how he thought the proposed new American policy would help the U. N. ease tensions among Israel and the Arab nations.

Zeineddine delivered to the State Department an eight-point denunciation of a reported Eisenhower administration decision to ask Congress for standby authority to use American armed force, if necessary, to check Soviet expansion moves in the Middle East.

"The so-called Soviet penetration of the Arab East is not real," the Syrian envoy said. "Tensions in western Asia and North Africa are due primarily to colonial Zionist actions and policies."

Zeineddine challenged the two main premises on which Eisenhower and Dulles are understood to be basing the new policy, which is to be explained to congressional leaders Tuesday.

The Syrian contended there is no "vacuum" in the Middle East now which Russia is threatening to fill, or any real threat of Soviet aggression or subversion in the area.

If there were a vacuum, he said, it would be filled by nations of the area and not from the outside.

Syria has never sought an American military shield, he stressed, because "the United Nations Charter alone can serve as a basis for future action."

Responsible State Department officials said they were not alarmed at Syria's advance notice that it would refuse to cooperate with the new policy.

They counted on a fuller explanation to ease the fears of Syria and other Arab nations that have greeted news reports of the development with suspicion and opposition.

Sesqui Celebration Topped Local News Events In '56

By LOIS WHITE

Salem's Sesquicentennial celebration last June stands out unforgettably as the biggest news event here in 1956.

In fact, the city's gay 150th anniversary party even eclipses many happenings of previous years but this review of important local news happenings concerns only 1956.

Thousands of former residents and guests thronged to the city during the week of June 9 to participate in the Sesqui celebration and residents themselves took time out to join in the fun after industriously working for five months to make the occasion a memorable one.

Pictures and relics of the 1800's were dusted off and brought from attic shelves, historical museums were established, old-fashioned country stores opened their doors, men grew beards and the women wore long dresses and bonnets. Loony Larcenists Lightly Lifted Literally Everything During 1956

By MEADER G. PATTINGTON
NEA Correspondent

The police blotters across America were spotted with fresh evidence this year that thieves, by and large, are a home-loving lot.

In fact, there was at least one case of a thief stealing a home. The building, in Springfield, Ohio, vanished from its lot. Police found it a day later on another lot across town. Nobody seems to know how it got from lot to lot.

Another larcenous lad put $3,000 down for a new home on Easy Street in Hanford, Calif. But his $3,000 check was a bounce. It turned out to be a quick trip from Easy Street up the river.

Then there was the home-and-fireside-type robber who broke into a Salem, Ore., home and proceeded to rip out the linoleum, make French toast and a fudge cake in the kitchen and walk out — stealing only a 10-inch pie plate.

THERE IS ALSO THE dirty crook in Tulsa, Okla., who regularly breaks into one particular home. The only thing the dirty crook takes is a bath — they can tell by the ring around the tub.

And a Hamilton, Ohio, burglar crashed into a partly dismantled home and crashed out again with the kitchen sink. Plus drainboard. Another thief with home furnishings on his mind operated successfully in a Danvers, Mass., hotel.

He checked out and the management discovered he had taken with him two lamps, a night table, an ashtray stand, four sheets, two pillow cases, two pillows, two blankets, two bedspreads, four towels, two ashtrays, two glasses and a shower curtain.

But there were some robbers in business in '56 who were out for other than home-style loot. Like the Jeffersonstown, Ky., operator who filched a 300-pound brass locomotive bell. And the Denver dodger who swiped two 100-pound tombstones.

There was a beer-truck, loaded with 40,800 bottles that was stolen in Oakland, Calif. The thief must have gotten a jolt when he found every bottle was an empty. He's making a fortune in returns.

A FIRETRUCK was another odd bit of booty. A Boston crook got that, while the firemen were battling a blaze. He crashed it a few blocks away, so he didn't get very far with his hot car.

A Chicago crook walked off with nine metal light posts — each weighing 1,500 pounds. He probably didn't walk off very fast. In Providence, R.I., a thief broke into a butcher shop and stole 15 turkeys, plus a handy meat cutter's knife.

Police in Burley, Idaho, are looking for an extra large crook. He stripped a dummy outside a clothing store of a pair of seven-foot long pants.

Larcenists of '56 showed a high degree of nerve. Many of their crooked operations involved policemen in close proximity. Like the New York thief who swiped eight policemen's pay checks, with a face value of $1,294.

AND, IN PHOENIX, Ariz., a robber invaded the county sheriff's pistol range and made off with a pistol, ammunition, a telescopic gun sight and a box of pistol grips. Even in Australia, the policemen's lot was unhappy — a Melbourne thief stole 10,000 copies of a booklet on crime prevention from the police printing plant.

In Toronto, a woman thief was freed on a charge of stealing $1,300 from her employer. When the lawyer's bill came in, she stole $908 and this time got a year in the pokey for her trouble.

Some crooks had all kinds of trouble. In Paducah, Ky., a bank robber made careful plans for crashing a bank after closing hours. But he actually got there an hour early and found the place crawling with customers, some of whom grabbed him. It was just as well — police discovered his pistol was loaded with the wrong-size ammunition and wouldn't have fired and his getaway car, parked nearby, wouldn't start.

And another chap, trying to stick-up a Phoenix, Ariz., dance hall, ran into a blackjack (wielded by the owner), a baseball bat (by a waitress), a steel chair (another waitress), a punch in the jaw (owner's brother), a well-tossed beer bottle (patron) and, to top it off, got arrested when he tried to stagger away.

WHEN CAUGHT, thieves, as usual, presented highly involved alibis, and excuses. A Rio de Janeiro man, arrested for practicing medicine without a license, explained that he had previously been a drug thief. And he was so successful and built up such a vast supply of drugs that he had to become a fake doctor to get rid of them before they spoiled.

But the fanciest story of all came from a Chicago man, arrested in bis, and excuses. A Rio de Janeiro man, arrested for practicing medicine without a license, explained that he had previously been a drug thief. And he was so successful and built up such a vast supply of drugs that he had to become a fake doctor to get rid of them before they spoiled.

"My hobby is shooting," the man explained. "I throw daggers and knives to amuse myself. I once studied locksmithing. And I like to see people cry."

Next case.

Dizzy Divorces

Just How Bad Is 'Worse' In 'For Better or For Worse'?

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

"For better or worse," the minister usually says in marriage ceremonies. But just how bad is "worse?" Looking over the reasons given for divorce actions in '56, you get the distinct impression that "worse" can be pretty rotten.

And there are as many cruel wives as husbands. Like Mrs. Lawrence Gates of Benton Harbor, Mich. Gates filed for divorce, charging Nina had the habit of waking him up in the morning by pouring cold water over him. Then, when he finally struggled up, she'd change and shower him with hot coffee.

On the other hand, consider the plight of Mrs. Hattie Payne of Chicago. In her divorce proceedings, she testified that in their 16 years of wedding bliss, her husband had given her 1,600 beatings which is roughly one every three days and almost 800 black eyes (approximately one a week). She finally decided they'd be happier apart.

ANOTHER WIFE with a hobby of pouring things on her husband was Mrs. Meyer Geller of Milwaukee. Geller claimed she poured turpentine over him, especially when he was in bed. And she tried to set him on fire. This, he alleged, made him nervous. He must be kind of high-strung.

Back to the male side again, specifically to the case of Mrs. Mary Feynman of Los Angeles. Her husband, she told the court, was a physicist who spent most of his waking hours working on problems in higher mathematics. To take his mind off such matters, he would pound on a set of African congo drums. It made him feel better. She felt worse. Divorce granted.

Matching that performance is Mrs. Theron N. Colbath of Portland, Me. Colbath told the court, during his divorce hearing, that his wife had the rather nasty habit of drilling him in his legs with an electric drill. He complained that he found the practice unpleasant.

Mrs. Doris Carnes of Santa Monica, Calif., testified of another type of cruelty. Her husband was the rooster-pecking kind of man. He even left her a marked TV schedule when he worked nights, and she could only watch programs that he had checked. He must have been a critic.

WHAT CAN BE MORE CRUEL than a woman who tells a prospective husband a lie about her age? That was Newcombe Watchorn's position when he got his divorce in Lancaster, Wis. It seems the lady said she was 61, but when they got married he checked and found she was 71. Watchorn, 85, got his divorce. He'll be more careful next time.

Peggy Lloyd found out it doesn't pay to be a good wife. Peggy, the daughter of comedian Harold Lloyd, won a divorce in Los Angeles after she testified that her husband, Bob Patten, "hated" her because she was such a good wife. Some people are never satisfied.

Another Los Angeles case involved the Bradley family. Juanita won the divorce when she testified that her husband took her to the beach and wanted her to play strip poker. She refused. He tried to drown her, she told the court. "And I don't even know how to play poker," she said, tearfully.

Then there was poor Mrs. Gladys Cullum, of Little Rock, Ark. Her husband, she charged, had run for state auditor in the primary elections. He lost. What made her mad was he never even told her he was a candidate. She got her divorce.

Mrs. Virginia Miller of Beverly Hills, Calif., won her divorce when she said she was allergic to her husband. Whenever he was around she got a skin rash.

AND A SPRINGFIELD, ILL., man, Lester D. Plummer, asked the court to annul his marriage. It lasted one month. Plummer claimed he was so emotionally upset after his divorce from his first wife that he didn't know what he was doing when he married his second.

Perhaps the most tragic divorce of all, and one that typifies all broken homes is the one that separated Mr. and Mrs. George Spencer of Dallas. When it came to making a property settlement, the judge was confronted with the problem of what to do with a pair of love birds.

He awarded the male bird to Spencer and the female to Mrs. Spencer. They both protested that the birds should be together. The judge held fast, but amended his order to add: "Reasonable visitation periods are granted for the male bird to visit the female bird during the mating season."

And so they lived happily ever after.

Footprints In Snow Lead To Three Car Thieves

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Footprints in the snow led to the capture of three teenage boys at nearby Roseville Sunday night after Muskingum County sheriff's deputies said they pulled a pistol on a Zanesville cab driver and stole his taxi.

Deputies said two of the boys are from Zanesville and the other is from Cincinnati. They were all 16 years old or younger.

Chester Russell, 41, told deputies the youths flagged him in Zanesville and asked to be driven to nearby Stovetown. He said a 15-year-old pulled a gun on him when he asked directions. Deputies said they ordered Russell out of the cab on a township road.

Meanwhile, the trio abandoned the cab after wrecking it near Cannelville and took off through the woods, leaving footprints in the snow.

Sticky Store Of Hogs Wins World Liar's Tourney

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP) — An "earthy" story of hogs who were doomed to death by sticky soil today won Albert B. Hopkins of Madison, Wis., the title of World Champion Liar of 1956.

The Burlington Liars' Club selected Hopkins' tale of hogs' tails from a collection of varied fabrications in its annual contest.

Hopkins, a 49-year-old electroplater, won the club's "gold plated diamond studded" medal for relating:

"Out in South Dakota they have a clay-like soil they call gumbo. The gumbo roads are smooth and hard as glass when dry, but when wet the gumbo balls up under the fenders until it locks the wheels on a car.

"Last year, during a wet spell, a farmer's hogs got a little ball of gumbo on their tails. As they walked around it got bigger and bigger until the weight of it pulled their skin back so tight they could not get their eyes shut — and they died from lack of sleep."

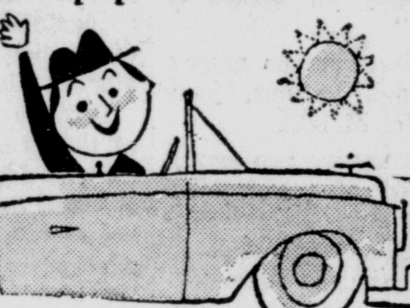

Hopkins succeeds Claude Yerkes of Kalispell, Mont., winner of the 1955 championship for his fib of a sheepherder who hung a 100-pound sack of flour on nails outside his trailer only to discover that fierce winds blew the sack away and left the flour hanging on the nails.

Tangerines are fine, both for eating and decorations, during the holidays. They're most plentiful now.

Happy Hunting!

The hunt for happiness will go forward with zeal in 1957, the same zeal that kept things popping in 1956.

It is as though everybody had been issued a hunting license to go after his favorite game with no rules to be obeyed.

The hunters wind up by hunting one another.

Therefore, it is out of the question to wish all of them happy hunting in the new year. There are too many conflicts of interest.

The only reasonable wish for some of them is that they may be improved by a sudden change of heart and, if that proves to be impossible, that they may get lost and never be heard of again.

We do not wish a Happy New Year or happy hunting to Communist agitators prodding already half-hysterical nationalists in the Middle East to a point of frenzy in the hope of picking up the pieces after an international explosion.

Nor to hard-eyed operators of dope rings who to foist degrading and potentially fatal drug addiction on juveniles, with the intent to make a profit from human weakness.

Nor to two-faced slickers who talk out of both sides of their mouths for the purpose of playing off one group of humans against another group, being faithful to neither and intending to cut the throats of both.

Nor to thieves who do not have the decency to admit they are thieves but pretend to be trustworthy citizens, the better to dip their sticky fingers into wealth that does not belong to them.

Nor to cynics who exploit the worst side of human nature to organize mob action against the forces of decency, in the hope of being bought off before they can unchain their mad dogs.

Nor to ingrates who turn against all who have been put up for sale to the highest bidder, with no reasonable offer rejected — although this fact has not been made known to their followers.

Nor to any whose arrogance is so gross it has destroyed the humility that enables a knowledgeable man to know how little he knows;

Nor to ingrates who turn against all who have tried to help them either out of ordinary decency or because of individual interest.

Nor to brutalitarians contemptuous of human dignity and careless of human life.

Nor to any of those who hunt happiness without due regard for the happiness of others which they may destroy, either wittingly or unwittingly.

They do not deserve a Happy New Year.

If you are not among them — and of course you wouldn't be caught dead with any of them — you deserve a Happy New Year.

Happy New Year!

Loading The Gun

If you do not understand Washington's deepest fear concerning the possibility of war, you will know all about it when Congress gives President Eisenhower standby authority to go to war in the Middle East.

It is the fear the Soviet Union may make an error which, thick-headed militarists led Germany into making twice and start a war on the assumption the United States will not join it.

The same fear caused the White House to ask for standby war-waging authority in the Far East in 1955, when Chinese Communists were threatening to go to war with Nationalists on Formosa. President Eisenhower is committed to the belief that only Congress can declare war; he does not want to usurp this legislative power.

But he also is committed to the belief this gives an enemy the privilege of getting off to a head start. Hence, it is prudent to take the gun down from its rack over the fireplace, load it and have it ready for immediate use — just in case.

The United States now has sole responsibility for security against Communism in the Middle East, as far as Britain and France are concerned. Their fiasco in Suez, which they insist was a move to thwart Communists, makes it unlikely they would risk censure again. Furthermore, if they tried further action now it would be the signal for a general uprising of the Arab people against British and French influence. Communism would be overlooked in the melee.

By the time Congress has threshed this out, everybody will know why Washington is afraid war might be started by ignorance of U.S. intentions.

A loaded and cocked gun standing within easy reaching distance would reduce the danger of ignorance.

The human nose is becoming sharper, says a doctor. Not, with some folks, from keeping it to the grindstone.

When you buy more and more government bonds you're wise — when you don't, otherwise.

Some love birds already are planning on holiday weddings. Our best wishes to the Yuletide!

Obstinate Nasser

By DAVID LAWRENCE

U.N. May Have To Use Force To Reopen Canal

The United Nations may be obligated to send a large military force into the Middle East to keep the Suez Canal open and preserve order in the immediate vicinity.

There is today constant warfare by Egypt against Israel by means of raids. Extensive sabotage at the southern end of the canal has been committed by Egyptians. Nasser still insists that he has the right to say who shall use the waterway despite the provisions of the 1888 Treaty which declare it shall be open to the ships of all nations at all times.

The Suez Canal question is still unresolved notwithstanding the decision announced by the Security Council of the United Nations of Oct. 15 as follows:

"Noting the declarations made before it and the accounts of the development of the exploratory conversations of the Suez question given by the secretary general of the United Nations and the foreign ministers of Egypt, France and the United Kingdom;

"(THE SECURITY COUNCIL) agrees that any settlement of the Suez question should meet the following requirements:

"1. There should be free and open transit through the canal without discrimination, overt or covert — this covers both political and technical aspects;

"2. The sovereignty of Egypt should be respected;

"3. The operation of the canal should be insulated from the politics of any country;

"4. The manner of fixing tolls and charges should be decided by agreement between Egypt and the users;

"5. A fair proportion of the dues should be allotted to development;

"6. In case of disputes, unresolved affairs between the Suez Canal Company and the Egyptian government should be settled by arbitration with suitable terms of reference and suitable provision for the payment of sums found to be due."

When will the U.N. start enforcing its decree? The whole world has assumed that, when the U.N. virtually ordered British and French forces out of the Suez area, there would be imposed an international discipline of some kind which would end the war and remove the causes of the controversy in the Middle East over use of the canal.

UNDER SUCH circumstances, the use of a preventive force to compel adherence to the Oct. 15 decision of the Security Council becomes logical.

If, on the other hand, the U.N. doesn't follow through, the way will be open for any nation to take military action. The British and French will be able to point to the sequence of events since they withdrew their military forces as justification for their original intervention of Oct. 31.

Egypt's position today is that she has been and still is "at war" with Israel and doesn't have to allow Israeli ships to use the canal. But on Sept. 1, 1951, the Security Council dealt specifically with this very subject in a unanimously adopted resolution.

This declared that Egypt had not complied with the earnest plea of the chief of staff of the truce supervision organization of the U.N., which demanded that Egypt "desist from the present practice of interfering with the passage through the Suez Canal of goods destined for Israel."

The resolution also characterized this blockade as an "unjustified interference with the rights of nations to navigate the seas and to trade freely with one another, including the Arab states and Israel. The resolution then concluded:

"THE SECURITY COUNCIL calls upon Egypt to terminate the restrictions on the passage of international commercial shipping goods through the Suez Canal wherever bound and to cease all interference with such shipping being that essential to the safety of shipping in the canal itself and to the observance of the international conventions in force."

This action was taken more than five years ago. How long will the Security Council of the U.N. allow its own decree to be disregarded? Britain and France have obeyed the U.N.'s orders. When will the U.N. compel Egypt to obey U.N. orders?

These are the questions which confront the U.N. but in reality they confront the American government, which may be called on to supply the largest part of any military force that goes into Egypt next time to obtain a fulfillment of U.N. decrees.

The Golden Door

By TRUMAN TWILL

Hungarians seeking and finding sanctuary in the United States are getting a warmer welcome than their forebears who came here in steamer more than a generation ago.

They are getting a warmer welcome than a man would have been thought possible as recently as 10 years ago, when the United States was in the grip of a postwar reaction against immigration.

The clamp-down on the foreign-born which grew out of that reaction was an attempt to isolate the United States from the influx of mixed blood which had made it strong and powerful. A change of heart was inevitable.

This is the time to recall the Emma Lazarus inscription on the tablet which stands inside the entrance to the pedestal of the Statue of Liberty:

"Here at our sea-washed sunset gates shall stand
A mighty woman with a torch, whose flame
Is the imprisoned lightning, and her name
Mother of Exiles, from her beacon-hand
Glows world-wide welcome; her mild eyes command
'Keep ancient lands, your storied pomp!' cries she
With silent lips. 'Give me your tired, your poor,
Your wretched refuse of your teeming shore.
Send these, the homeless,
tempest-tost to me.
I lift my lamp beside the golden door!'"

Only the United States dared to open its doors wide to the tempest-

Gift Of Freedom

"The big refugee airlift from Austria and Germany to the United States is about the finest Christmas gift that could be imagined for thousands of beleaguered Hungarians — except, of course, freedom for their homeland.

At first U.S. handling procedures seemed painfully slow and cumbersome. Immigration clearance rules still interpose difficulties. But President Eisenhower has acted wisely to arrange for a massive movement by Air Force planes to bring virtually all eligible refugees here by the first of 1957.

The dramatic mass transfer is far more in keeping with the American spirit than were the first limited, sporadic flights out of the troubled border zones.

Unhappily, the refugees' wish to come to America is so widespread that the quota of those who can be allowed entry is already vastly oversubscribed.

Anyone who is always cheerful at breakfast time has one good habit — and that's it.

It's Your Job Now

By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON

A century ago one of America's most ardent advocates of individual freedom sounded a warning in a public address in Boston. "The manna of popular liberty must be gathered each day, or it is rotten," he said. "Only by uninterrupted agitation can a people be kept sufficiently awake to principle not to let liberty be smothered by material prosperity. Republics exist only on tenure of being agitated."

These wise observations were made by Wendell Phillips, journalist and patriot of 1850. In America today we are experiencing a period of unparalleled prosperity. And many of our people are apathetic, unworried, in spite of the continued centralization of economic and political power in our national capital.

They are not agitating against big government. They are not agitating against the centralization of taxation — a $69 billion Federal budget, a $280 billion national debt, a 20-plus per cent federal tax on our incomes, and a subtle gathering of power to Washington, power that can be transferred only by taking it away from the individual citizens of the nation.

INDEED WE DO NEED to agitate against the growth of Federal government! The major source of the great power which our federal government has garnered to itself in the last 25 years is money. It is an economic power that is being wielded. It comes from taxes.

The economic power has shifted from the grassroots, where the people can best control it, to the nation's capital, a long way from home.

In 1914, 70 per cent of all government expenditure was at the local and state levels. Today only 30 per cent is at the local and state levels, and 70 per cent is in Washington.

It is easier to expose and abolish governmental waste and graft at the local level than at the Federal level. But our apathy, our failure to agitate against big centralized government and the gradual loss of individual freedom has permitted the federal government to become dominant in the economic life of the nation, and to become wasteful and extravagant with our hard-earned cash.

THE SECOND HOOVER Commission, headed by leading citizens and members of Congress, is dedicated to eliminating waste in the federal government, improving efficiency and lowering the cost to every citizen. Its objectives and its personnel have the endorsement of President Eisenhower and former President Truman.

Through the support of citizens at the grass-roots, the Committee for the Hoover Report last year agitated through Congress a number of reforms which will improve governmental efficiency and cut the cost.

Every citizen owes it to his future welfare — his economic prosperity and his freedom — to join with this citizens' group and agitate for the whittling down of the size, and cost, and power of the Federal government. It is one of the most important citizen tasks confronting every American. There are 48 state chapters of the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report. Contact your state chapter. Your Chamber of Commerce or civic club, your farmers' organization, your Union Local, or your local Post Office will give you the address. The National Committee's address is: 441 Lexington Avenue, New York 17, New York.

ONCE IN CONTACT with your state Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report, you will be supplied information on the report itself, detailing the specific findings and recommendations for reforms in the Federal government and specific information on how each citizen can make his influence felt. Even if you fail to contact the Citizens Committee, you can contribute to the vitally important agitation for governmental economy by writing your Senators, your Representatives, and the President, urging their support of the Hoover Report recommendations.

There are comparatively few controversial recommendations in the report. On these recommendations make your decision, and make that decision known. On all the others, urge their adoption. More than $5 billion would be cut from the federal budget each year — and stay in the pocketbooks of taxpayers — if the Hoover Commission recommendations now before Congress were approved.

With this action our federal government's power would be lessened and the moral atmosphere in which it operates would be vastly improved.

Guards Play Rough

AP Newsfeatures

Memo to a foreign spy: Are you planning to break into one of the U.S. Air Force Strategic Air Command bases? Take a little advice: Don't try it.

Any attempt to sabotage a SAC base, home of the atom and hydrogen bombers, faces million to one odds of failure. At the very least, you will wind up stark naked with a rifle butt in your teeth five minutes after you try to slip in. And if the guards don't get you, vicious sentry dogs will.

They're ready for you. Really ready. For SAC is at war already and they trust no man — not even their own.

Security is more than a word with the Strategic Air Command — it's a way of life. It's a daily program.

Practice alerts at all hours of the day and night are commonplace — and the men alerted by pyramid phone calls never know if it is a practice affair or the real thing.

Phones ring at 4 a.m. Doors slam. Tires squeal as colonels, majors, sergeants and airmen race to wake others in a pyramiding alert, then dash for the base to stand by on duty for five ten or more hours, as planes take off on mysterious missions.

But that isn't the whole story — it's only part of it. Gen Curtis E. LeMay's Strategic Air Command goes to fantastic lengths to be sure their bases are safe from infiltration and sabotage. The stories of their daily exercises in security read like a cloak and dagger thriller — yet they are true.

SAC bases this very minute live under the security restrictions of wartime. Officers and men wear I.D. cards on their shirts and blouses. Areas to which a man may be admitted are defined. If someone thoughtlessly crosses a line to a zone where he doesn't belong he is arrested instantly — and not always pleasantly.

"I stepped over a line once," a sergeant said. "I didn't belong there — I just wasn't thinking. Before I knew what had happened two air policemen grabbed me by each arm and hustled me off to an interrogation room. "They stripped me naked; broke my pencil and pen in two (searching for tiny but patent thermite bombs), and stood me against a wall — those guys don't care who you are if they catch you in an area where you don't belong."

An Air Force man in charge of a security patrol in a very hush-hush zone said he had specific orders to do that.

"One of my men caught an officer in the area. The man wasn't cleared for the zone and had no business being there. The officer started to pull rank — give my airman a bad time. He got a rifle butt slammed into him and we hauled him away. Orders are orders and we're playing for keeps."

The officer tried to prefer charges against the guard for assaulting a superior. The charges were dropped and the airman got a commendation.

Intelligence agents from Washington keep base security forces on their toes by sending teams around the country to try to sneak into SAC bases. They go to fantastic lengths in their spy-pretense.

At one base they bought an old laundry truck from a firm that had been using it for pickup and delivery on the base. They got in to the base and planted rolled-up sheets of paper on half-dozen B47 jet atom bombers.

Next day the team returned — officially — and took the base commander and the base provost marshal on a tour and showed them the "bombs" they'd planted. The provost marshal, so the story goes, was transferred in 24 hours.

Infiltration exercises by intelligence agents have gotten SAC base security men to a high peak of efficiency. They no longer even trust their own mothers.

And it has now become a game — a deadly game — between intelligence men and SAC guards.

"We don't take any chances," a security man said. "If there is anything phony about a guy, he's in for trouble."

He grinned. "And if we think he's an American intelligence agent trying to sneak in, he's in even worse trouble."

A Few New Year Cards

A happy New Year, Ike, to you;

Be straight and true and to the green!

May fifty-seven bring you cheer
And Ike, despite all calls, be near,
With time for both down on the farm
Where you can miss toil, care and harm.

(To Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.)
May patience leave you, mister, never
Where those debates go on forever!
While Moscow's speakers rant at length
May heaven, Henry, give you stren'thl!

(To Anthony Eden)
Best of luck without reverse! . . .
The coming year can't be much worse;
Put this one in your adage books:
"Before you jump take two long looks!"

(To Winston Churchill)
A Happy New Year to a guy
Whose memory will never die;
May this new year outshine the past—
And each cigar exceed the last.

(To Adlai Stevenson)
May luck and fortune neatly mix
To cheer you more than fifty-six;
A hole in your shoe no one will grieve
If there's none in your sock each New Year's Eve.

May fifty-seven smile on you
As pleasures from it stem;
And may you have the pleasant thought
You're back with old G.M.

A lighter load for you I wish
With luck along the course;
May U.N. realize that you're
A man and not a horse!

AIRWAVE NEWS ANGLES continue to baffle us . . . It seemed to us that when Premier Nehru, one of the great men of our times, like him or not, appeared before the United Nations in an historic hour, we could tune in and get it . . . But on TV the Mickey Mouse Club, Ramar of the Jungle, My Little Margie, Popeye the Sailor and Clubhouse Gang prevailed as of much more importance.

On radio we found Cocktail Time, the Weather, Bob & Ray, etc., getting all the attention, except for New York's own municipal station. Television's news nose struck us as especially blunted in view of the fact that Nehru is a man of terrific personality, never fails to put on an interesting show and was discussing just about the most important subject in the lives of all human beings, war and peace.

Nehru is no great help to our side but he holds interest . . . To us he has something of the combined facial personalities of Gene Tunney, Walter Pidgeon, Yogi Berra, Jack Benny, Bishop Sheen and Jimmy Stewart.

Mike Wallace on "Night Beat" is one of the sharpest interviewers on earth.

We disagree with the critics who said the music in "Happy Hunting" wasn't good . . . Its "Mutual Admiration Society" and "Ifen" numbers were hits even before the musical opened in New York and we have seldom heard a more amusing comedy number than "Mr. Livingston I Presume."

FANTASTIC ARE the operations of Soviet agents in America according to Senate inquiries, but rarely more so than in the routines of identification between Klaus Fuchs and his American contact man, according to testimony just released in detail.

Bomb Hoax Empties Cuyahoga Library

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Three car-loads of police at nearby Cuyahoga Falls spent 40 minutes searching Taylor Memorial Library Monday in what they decided was a hoax "bomb scare."

The police were dispatched after an anonymous call was received warning that there was a bomb in the library set to explode "any time."

Police cleared the building, which they said was fairly well crowded with school-age boys and girls.

Commented Sgt. Wynandus DeInay after the search, "Too much vacation, too many kids."

Chicago Stock Yards Claims Top Business

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Union Stock Yards Monday claimed it received more saleable livestock in 1956 than any other stockyards in the country.

Saleable livestock are those shipped to market for sale. In addition, markets receive "direct" shipments which are not offered for sale but go directly to slaughter houses.

Chicago said it received 5,288,697 head of hogs, cattle and sheep. It said St. Paul was second with 5,205,757 head and Omaha third with 4,908,253 head.

Pass The Water

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—On New Year's Day morning after the night before many ailing Americans have a sudden personal interest in one of the world's oldest wonder drugs.

It is called water.

Some wish to quaff it, hoping to bank an interior fire. Some want to rub it on their wrists, some to douse it on their hair and temples. A few want to crawl under a cool shower and lie there.

Some elders wish merely to sit in a room in which water has been turned to steam as they sweat and ponder the follies of the year past — and their hopes for the year ahead.

Just what is this magic substance, water, which so many people get interested in for a single day? Why do they want to surround it — or it to surround them?

Is water good or bad for the human race?

Scientists and bartenders regard it as an essential to normal life. But poets and philosophers disagree as to the importance it should have in a well-run civilization.

A thirsty sufferer might be interested in these varying views: "Water is the best of all things" — Pindar, 475 B. C.

"The natural, temperate and necessary beverage for the thirsty is water" — Clement of Alexandria.

"The greatest necessity of the soldier is water" — Napoleon Bonaparte.

"Water is the only drink for the wise man" — H. D. Thoreau.

"Drinking water neither makes a man sick, nor in debt, nor his wife a widow" — H. G. Bonn, 1855, who apparently never heard of typhoid fever.

Yet the ancient Chinese did.

5 Flee Workhouse; 4 Quickly Nabbed

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Five slender prisoners wriggled out of a 12 by 16 - inch opening at the Toledo Workhouse early Monday.

Four were captured within hours. The fifth is still at large.

The men pried loose a bar, smashed a dormitory window, then dropped 10 feet to the ground, Roland Lytle, superintendent, said.

Three men were picked up by police in Maumee, a city north east from the workhouse, before workhouse authorities knew of the escape.

The fourth was seized by sheriff's deputies in the nearby village of Monclova after a resident saw him calling from an outdoor telephone booth.

Still free is Walter Miller, 28, of Toledo, who was serving four months for drunk and disorderly conduct, driving without a license and while under the influence of liquor.

U.S. Bonds Decline In Light Trading Monday

NEW YORK (AP)—U. S. government bonds declined in light year-end trading Monday to close out 1956 with long-range issues at historic lows.

The corporate bond market closed lower on balance with industrials ahead, rails steady and utilities and investment quality issues lower. Volume declined to $6,040,000 par value from $7,050,000 Friday.

Over-the-counter dealers said the Treasury's Victory 2½s of December 1972-67 were off 8-32 at 87-20-32; the 30-year 3½s declined 10-32 at 96-10-32, and the 40-year 3s surrendered 12-32 at 91-2-32 bid. These are all-time lows for the "Vics," 3½s and 3s.

Stocks Trade Very Active

Most Issues Show Year-End Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market had a New Year's Eve splurge Monday, piling up the second biggest volume of the year with a fair gain on average.

The market wound up its business for 1956 only slightly higher than it closed in 1955.

Steels and oils were the pace-makers Monday but motors, aircrafts and rails lagged.

Among the gainers, pivotal stocks ran ahead from fractions to around $4. The losses among key stocks ran to $1 or so.

Volume totaled 3,680,000 shares, the highest since Feb. 29 when 3,900,000 shares were traded on the day that President Eisenhower announced he would run for re-election. Monday's volume also compared with 2,790,000 on Friday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 80 cents to $181.50. It closed the year 1955 at $180.20. Monday the industrial component rose $1.50, the rails declined 40 cents and the utilities rose 50 cents.

The market was higher from the start and stayed that way. Just before the close there was a spate of profit taking which converted some small gains to losses and sliced some of the big gains.

The breadth of the market and its big volume were accounted for by a number of factors. Wall Street experts said that combined with the remnant of 1956 tax-loss selling there was large-scale reinvestment of funds, investment company "window dressing" to add high quality stocks to their holdings as of the year-end, and a rotation by traders from stocks which have enjoyed a profit to some which have been neglected. Buying was also spurred by good prospects for the 1957 first quarter.

The international oils were helped by news of clearing operations of the Suez Canal and prospects for resumption of some traffic by March.

The American Stock Exchange was irregular on volume of 1,750,000 shares compared with 1,330,000 Friday.

Professor Says Insects Are A Friend Of Man

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—This may come as a surprise to summer picnickers, but insects are among man's best friends. Take the word of Ohio State University entomologist Prof. Dwight M. DeLong.

In a paper delivered before a meeting in New York Sunday of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Prof. DeLong pointed out that:

1. Shellac, a paint ingredient, is made from deposits of certain scale insects native to Asia.
2. Certain commercial waxes are produced by other scale insects in Japan and Central America.
3. The bodies of other insects are used in the production of cochineal, a red dye.
4. Cantharidin, a medicinal drug, is produced entirely from the bodies of certain European blister beetles.
5. Many insect groups assist in the development and improvement of the soil.

In addition to these specialized benefits, Prof. DeLong said, many insects, particularly the bee, affect pollination and thereby assure continuation of plant life.

Dulles Gives Hammarskjold U.S. Plans For Middle East

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles talked over the Middle East situation with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold Monday, reportedly on the new U. S. plan to block Soviet expansion in the critical area.

In a statement after the two-hour conference, Dulles said he talked to Hammarskjold so he could relay the U. N. viewpoint to President Eisenhower for his discussion with congressional leaders Tuesday.

Won't Discuss Talks

Neither Dulles nor Hammarskjold would comment on just what was discussed at the luncheon in the Waldorf-Astoria apartment of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr.

Informed sources said the discussion centered on the Eisenhower administration's sweeping new economic-military plan for the Middle East.

In his statement Dulles said recent events in the Middle East "make it necessary that the United States should further develop its policies in relations to that area."

Dulles added that Eisenhower had asked him to go over the whole situation with Hammarskjold in order that U. S. and U. N. policies should dovetail.

Aired Arab Situation

Reliable informants said Dulles spelled out the new U. S. plan, after discussing the Arab-Israeli situation and the Suez Canal problem.

The said Dulles told Hammarskjold:

1. That the U. S. plan is aimed exclusively against Russian attack or subversion.
2. It is not intended to tamper with U. N. efforts to achieve a Middle East peace and reopen the canal.
3. The U. N. cannot take steps against Soviet imperialism in the Middle East because of Russia's veto power in the Security Council. Thus the United States is the logical one to thrust its economic and military power into the vacuum caused by waning British-French prestige.

As explained to newsmen in Washington, the U. S. plan has two main parts.

1. A congressional authority for Eisenhower to use U. S. troops—if he deems it necessary—to oppose any Soviet aggression in the Middle East.
2. A two-year program of economic aid totaling more than 400 million dollars, available to all Middle East country from Gibraltar to the Arabian Sea.

Social Security Tax Goes Up On Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Social security taxes go up Tuesday—to affect some 69½ million persons during 1957. They also will begin to apply for the first time to members of the armed services.

The rate for covered workers and their employers will rise from 2 per cent on each to 2½ per cent on each, or from a total of 4 per cent to 4½ per cent. This is estimated to apply to about 63 million persons over the course of the year 1957.

For about 6½ million self-employed persons covered by old age and survivors insurance the rate goes up from 3 per cent to 3½ per cent.

The taxes apply on the first $4,200 of annual income.

A social security spokesman said the tax increase was voted by Congress to meet anticipated costs of the new program providing disability cash benefits at age 50 for qualified workers.

The 1956 changes passed by Congress also provide for cash benefits to women at age 62 for the first time; for benefits to disabled children of qualified retired or deceased workers, and extended social security coverage to members of the armed services.

One Of Most Wanted Criminals Is Nabbed

CHICAGO (AP)—FBI agents last night seized Joseph James Bragnola, one of the nation's most 19 wanted, for the slaying of a New Orleans used-car dealer.

Bragnola, 40, was described by the FBI as a hired gunman who was involved in the murder of Henry Stern during a $50,000 hold-up in 1950. He will be arraigned today before U. S. Commissioner C. S. Bentley Pike.

Agents said Bragnola surrendered meekly in a cocktail lounge on Chicago's South Side. He was unarmed.

Stern was pistol-whipped by a gang of thugs who invaded his home. He died a short time later. His wife was left trussed in their upstairs apartment while the holdup men raided it for money and jewelry.

The FBI said the holdup was planned by a New Orleans robbery gang. Bragnola was one of three gunmen imported from Chicago to carry out the robbery, the FBI said, because the plotters feared they might be recognized by their intended victim.

Miss Josephine Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Davis of Salineville, and Raymond Cochran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cochran of Toronto, were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon in the Bethel Presbyterian Church of Highlandtown.

Rev. R. R. Johnson and Rev. Riedesel performed the double ring ceremony.

Nuptial music was provided by Miss Nancy Clark, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a princess-style, ballerina-length gown of ice blue taffeta. She carried a white Testament overlaid with a white orchid.

The Battle Of Congress

16 Women Legislators May Prove Influential

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 85th Congress starts out with a sprinkling of 16 women members bent on pushing legislation ranging from equal rights for their sex to civil rights for all.

There are a few changes, but the political lineup remains the same as it was at the start of the 84th Congress:

Republican Margaret Chase Smith of Maine in the Senate for her second six-year term; nine Democrats and six Republicans in the House of Representatives. There are only two newcomers—one from each party.

SIXTEEN IS THE record number for women in Congress, set first at the start of the 84th Congress, before the death in November, 1955, of Rep. Vera Buchanan (D-Penn.). The last session of Congress ended with 15 women on duty.

Although they number less than 3 per cent of the 535-member Congress, the women plan to exercise a lot more influence than that on the laws of the land during the 1957-59 term.

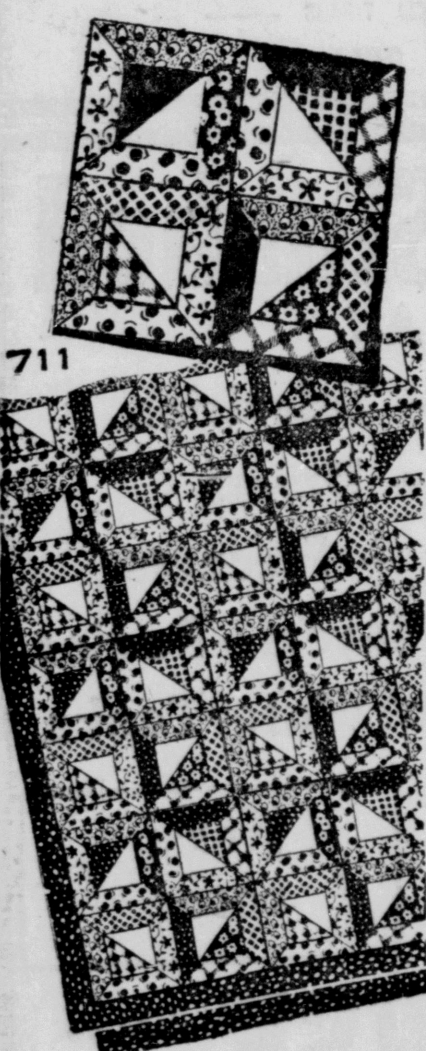

Sen. Smith has a firm footing on three important Senate committees—armed services, appropriations and government operations.

On the important 32-member House Foreign Affairs Committee, which held December briefing sessions getting ready for the Jan. 3 opening of Congress, are three women—Reps. Frances P. Bolton (R-Ohio), Mrs. Marguerite Church (R-Ill.) and Mrs. Edna F. Kelly (D-N.Y.).

A perennial favorite of the women—bound to come up early in the 1957 session—are the twin equality items, equal rights and equal pay for women.

FOR YEARS NOW, the women

DESIGNED FOR HER. A short girl can wear very nearly any fashion if it's proportioned for her.

It's the if that's most often the stumbling block. In order to get what she wants, the small woman often resorts to having a dress cut down in all of the wrong places: shoulders, waistline, sleeves. The result is usually awful.

What she needs are clothes designed for her, proportioned through waistline and shoulders and sleeves, following out the season's top fashion trends.

We show here two short waisted fashions designed for the small figure, with shorter waistline and with lines that create a flattering illusion of height and slenderness.

Spring Fashions

Those Fine Clothes To Start From The Inside Out

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

The shape of new spring fashions depends on the inside story. The girl who hopes to cut a fine figure in her new 1957 dress should consider the problem from the inside out. For much of the effectiveness of new clothes depends on correct line and fit—and the wrong underpinnings can ruin the whole effect.

So specialized has become the business of foundation garments, that you need a number of different combinations of girdle and bra to create the proper line for various kinds of clothes—the peg-top dress, the backless evening gown, the princess line dress and the many kinds of pants, from skin-tight slacks to high-tide shorts.

The current importance of the low-cut back has brought on a rash of low-back bras, to take one example. Naturally you can't wear a regular bra with a backless dress. So designers have been experimenting with various engineering devices to produce a bra that exercises the proper restraint without having a band across the middle of the back. Their results have been highly successful.

The high-waisted Empire line has necessitated high-rising girdles, to take another example. You can't have a bulge around the middle if you're going to look like Empress Josephine. The proper effect may be achieved by wearing a long line bra and high waisted girdle or an all-in-one corsette, increasingly popular with women who want to be sure of smooth unbroken line with no bulges.

The popular princess line dress, which will still be around this spring; poses a different problem. It has a wide, open neckline, so you can't have shoulder straps showing. It also needs an undershirt with a little flare so that the flaring line of the dress is properly supported. The best answer to this one is the strapless bra-slip, cut on long-torso lines so that the figure is molded smoothly from bustline to hipline, the skirt flaring toward the hem.

Every girl wants skinny slacks this year, but if she wears a short panty girdle beneath them she's likely to have an unsightly bulge on each thigh. The solution is the long-leg panty girdle, which encourages a smooth line from waist to knee.

Briefer shorts require brief panty girdles beneath, with enough firmness to keep hipline curves under control.

So don't try to get by with the same old girdle and bra and expect it to do duty with all your clothes. Nowadays it just won't work.

350,000 Football Fans To See Tuesday's Bowl Games

Only 1 Unbeaten Team In Action

Orange Bowl Seen As Closest Game

By The Associated Press
Although New Year's Day isn't what it used to be when it took an unbeaten season and a lot of publicity to gain a major bowl bid, more than 350,000 football fans are expected to turn out Tuesday at various sunn (they hope) locations to see the furious finish of the 1956 college football season.

The four major bowl games that through tradition have made Jan. 1 the biggest football day of the year are on the schedule, along with three lesser attractions. Only one team involved, Tennessee, can boast a perfect record.

Here's the lineup for the four major games that will be watched by television viewers throughout the nation as well as the 300,000 or so who can jam their way into the stadium:

Sugar Bowl at New Orleans—Tennessee (10-0) vs. Baylor (8-2), ABC-TV, 2 p.m., EST.

Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.—Iowa (8-1) vs. Oregon State (7-2-1), NBC-TV, 5 p.m., EST.

Cotton Bowl at Dallas—Syracuse (7-1) vs. Texas Christian (7-3), NBC-TV, 1 p.m., EST.

Orange Bowl at Miami—Colorado (7-2-1) vs. Clemson (7-1-2), CBS-TV, 2 p.m., EST.

Also scheduled are the Sun Bowl clash between George Washington (7-1-1) and Texas Western (9-1-0) at El Paso, Tex.; the Prairie View Bowl at Houston, Tex., which matches Prairie View A&M (4-5) and Texas Southern (8-1); and at night the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., in which Mississippi Southern (7-1-1) plays West Texas State (7-2).

The odds makers apparently figure the Orange Bowl will be the closest of the four major bowl games. Colorado, which has one of the nation's most powerful fullbacks in John (The Beast) Bayuk, and which gave Oklahoma an awful scare before going down in the second half, 27-19, is favored only by 1½ points.

In addition to Bayuk, a handful of the season's best-publicized players will be in the big games. Tennessee sends its great single wing tailback, Johnny Majors, against a Baylor line led by tackle Bill Glass. Syracuse's smashing Jimmy Brown opposes Texas Christian's Jim Swink in the Cotton Bowl. And although Swink didn't have as big a season as in 1955, when he was the nation's leading scorer, his coaches say he's a better football player. Iowa's Big Ten champions have been tabbed as a starless team, but quarterback Ken Plon was voted the most valuable player in the conference. He'll oppose a couple of explosive Oregon State halfbacks, Joe Francis and Earnel Durden.

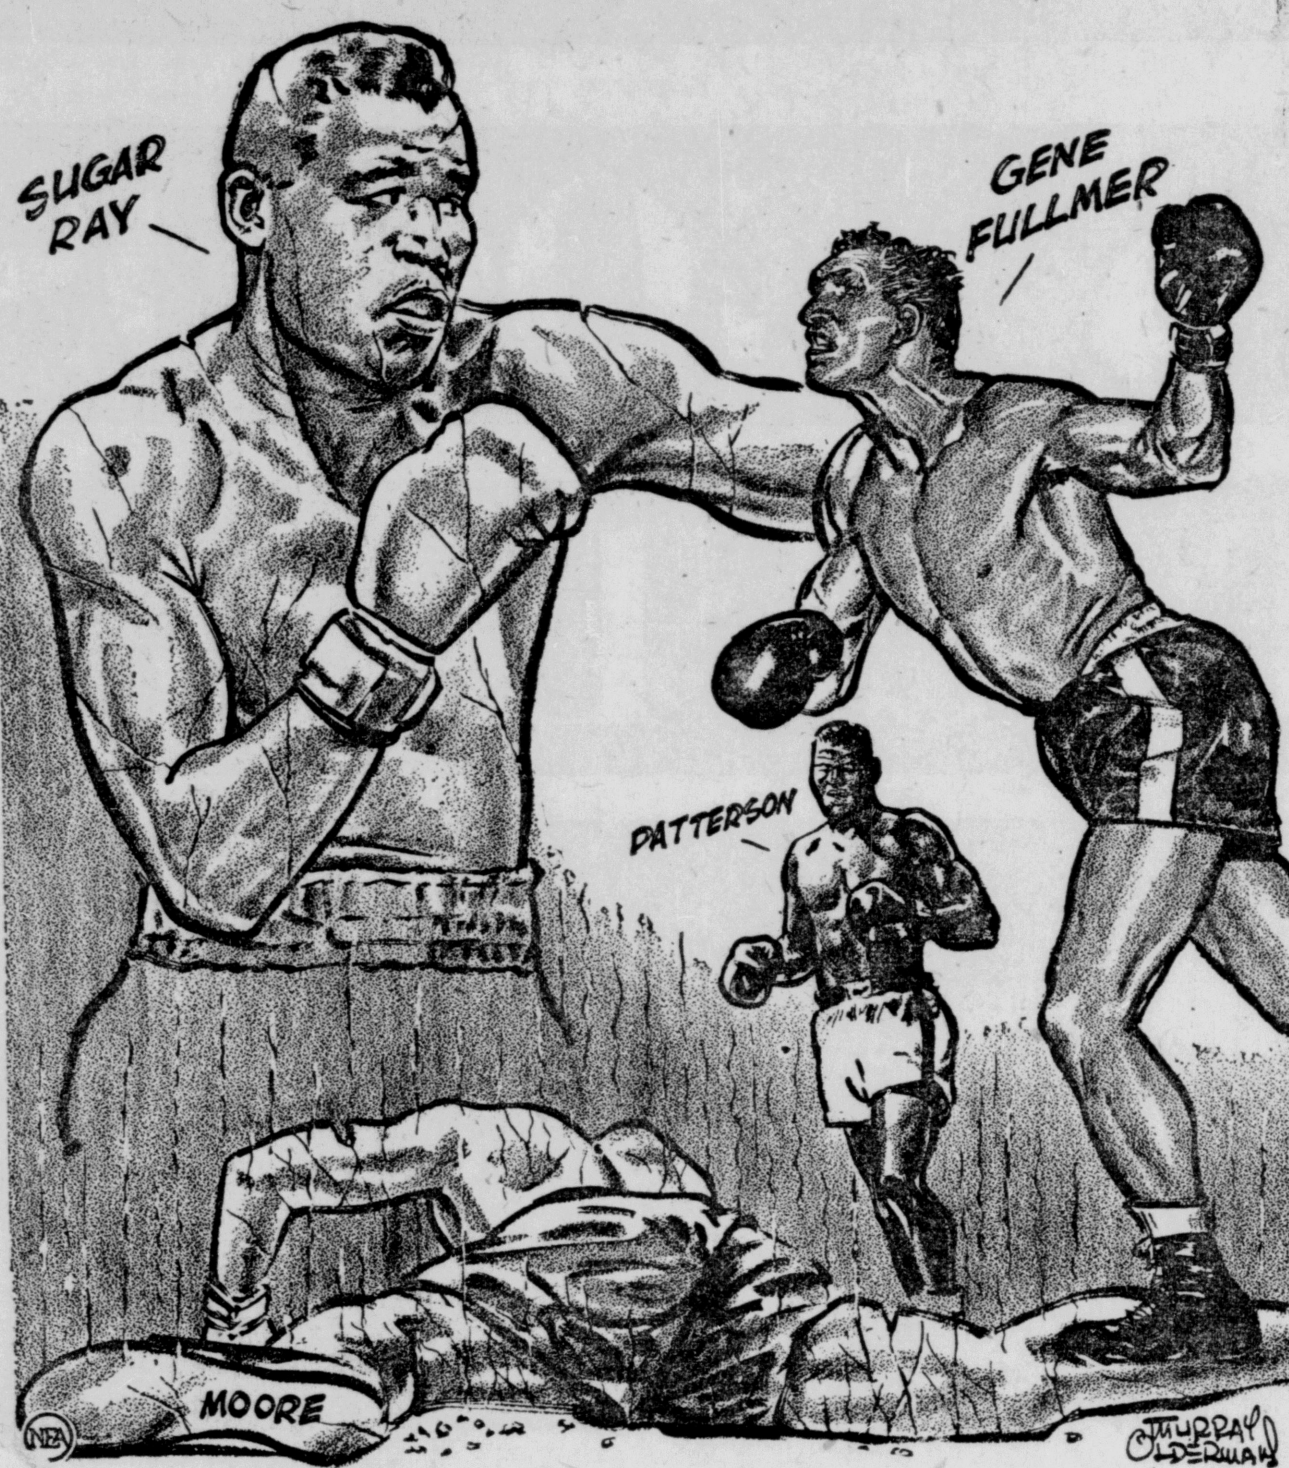

Iowa is listed as an 8-point favorite over Oregon State; Tennessee is 7½ over Baylor, which finished third in the Southwest Conference; and TCU runnerup in the Southwest, is favored by 5½ over Syracuse.

Foreign Stars To Race In Indianapolis Speedway

MILAN, Italy (AP)—A new twist will be added to Indianapolis' Speedway classic in 1957 by participation of foreign racing stars.

The new twist will be repeated at the Monza Speedway, near Milan a month later—on June 29—when the 10 top placing Americans at the Indianapolis May 29 race compete against best drivers from "the rest-of-the-world," according to a project now well underway.

As part of the two-way duel, an American rubber company now is studying production of special tires for the Monza 500-mile marathon. Engineer Giuseppe Baciagalupo, director of the Monza Speedway, said the company was asked to study special tire needs for the track after an Italian rubber company recently dropped its production of racing tires.

Baciagalupo said Monza requirements differ from those of Indianapolis because it requires treated tires to prevent skidding. At Indianapolis smooth tires are used.

Coach, Wife Injured In Auto Collision

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—Orin (Babe) Hollingbery, veteran West Coast football coach, and his wife, Hazel, were shaken up and bruised Monday as 20 automobiles piled up in rearend collisions in dense fog on Bayshore Highway.

Hollingbery, with two 50-yard line tickets in his pocket, was headed for the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena. His automobile received extensive damage to the front. "I guess we won't make it to the game," he said.

Hollingbery, former head coach at Washington State College, was on the coaching staff of the West team in the annual East-West Shrine game for 19 years.

duel was agreed upon last year by A. E. Ulmann, Sebring race organizer; Anton Hulman, president of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Co., and Italian representatives headed by Baciagalupo. Non-American drivers will be allowed to enter the Indianapolis race.

American contestants for the Monza race will be flown by chartered plane to Italy four or five days before the event. Their cars, according to present plans, are to be shipped by June 12 from New York.

Prize and expense money for the Monza event will total some 200 million lire ($320,000).

Farrell, Tribe's New Chief, Is Worried About Yankees

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—"Are the Yankees a good ball club?" was how new Cleveland Indian manager Kerby Farrell greeted the writer during the winter meetings.

Farrell was told they were, but that he was supposed to answer questions about the Indians and not ask them about the Yankees. "All right," replied Farrell, who suddenly realized his question was months premature. "Fire away."

"I got the big job only because Al Lopez quit. I might still be at Indianapolis. This was the first time I was considered for the Indian job. I know I can do the job. We think we have real good pitching."

Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager, has been censored in some circles for keeping Farrell waiting 30 days at his telephone in Hendersonville, Tenn.

He wanted that Cleveland job so badly he wouldn't dare go out of the house. When Greenberg phoned, Farrell says he began to live.

Major Kerby Farrell was born 43 years ago last Sept. 3 at Leapwood, Tenn. His big league record shows that he got in 183 games and batted .262 collectively for the 1943 Boston Braves and the 1945 Chicago White Sox. In '43 his longest blow was a triple. He was a first baseman and tried to make it as a pitcher. In 23 innings he yielded 11 runs for a 4.30 earned run mark. He couldn't make it at either position. Yet everybody says he will make it as a manager.

His Indianapolis Indians beat Edie Stanky's Minneapolis club in a seven-game playoff after beating out front-running Denver for the pennant by five games. In the final playoff the Indians beat Denver four straight and won the Little World Series with a four-straight victory over Dixie Walker's Rochester Red Wings.

Farrell comes to the Indians to join many of the players he helped in their climb to the majors. Kerby was at Indianapolis three sibly the best young left hander in baseball. Before that he had Score at Reading, Pa., in the Eastern League. He was one of the first to predict a great future for Score.

Rocky Colavito, Joe Caffie, Joe Altobelli, Buddy Raines, a promising shortstop, Rudy Regalado, Stan Pittula, Buddy Daley, Dolan Nichols and Dick Tomanek are others he had at both places. You will be hearing about them next spring.

Thus, Farrell joins the growing list of farm team managers now being brought up to the majors. Brooklyn started it with Walter Alston who came from Montreal. And now the Tigers have Jack Tighe, the Cubs Bob Scheffing, the Pirates Bobby Bragan, the Giants Bill Rigney and Boston has Pinky Higgins.

Almost everyone agrees Farrell belongs. He has a flat nose which has been broken three times. He is fidgety and nervous and knows he has the Yankees to beat.

He is a driver of the Stanky type and even has Stanky as his third base coach. He will make the Indians run, if such is possible, and if the Yankees are to be beaten Farrell could be the one to do it.

Mrs. Pat McCormick Named Top Amateur Athlete Of '56

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Patricia Keller McCormick, queen of the world's divers who completed an unprecedented "double double" in the Melbourne Olympics, Monday was named winner of the James E. Sullivan AAU Memorial Trophy as the outstanding amateur athlete of 1956.

It was a fitting tribute to the statuesque, 26-year old mother from Lakewood, Calif., who retired from the boards after sweeping every crown in sight.

Mrs. McCormick, only woman ever to win both Olympic dives in two successive Olympics and the only one to capture all five national titles in one year, was the first choice on 300 of the 608 ballots cast by the nationwide tribunal of sports authorities participating in the poll. On the 5-3-1 count of first, second and third place votes, Pat accumulated 1,889 points.

Rafer Johnson, decathlon star from UCLA who finished second in the Olympics and is the world record holder in the 10-event sport, was second with 77 first-place votes and 877 points.

Third place went to sprinter Walter Thane Baker, winner of three medals in the Melbourne games. The Elkhart, Kan., Air Force officer received 77 first-place votes and 783 points.

Mrs. McCormick, mother of a 9-month-old boy, and wife of the Olympic women's diving coach, Glenn McCormick, became the second woman ever to win the prized Sullivan trophy. Olympic swimming champion Ann Curtis was awarded the prize in 1944.

Kirk Wilson set new NCAA, Pacific Coast Conference and UCLA punting records during 1956. A sophomore, he averaged 49.3 yards on 30 kicks.

Rival Coaches Relaxed on Eve Of Rose Bowl

By BOB MYERS

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Pregame tension and excitement filled the atmosphere Monday but the rival coaches seemed relaxed on the eve of the Iowa-Oregon State Rose Bowl encounter.

Coach Forest Evashevski of the Big Ten champions and his opposite number from the Pacific Coast Conference, Tommy Prothro, appeared at the annual kickoff luncheon at Pasadena's Civic Auditorium.

Evashevski, in a joking mood, said he has wrecked all his offensive plans and will use the short punt formation. Prothro replied he would have to hurry back and revamp his defensive preparations.

The exchange brought gales of laughter from the 3,000 guests. On the serious side, the coaches said their teams were in good shape physically.

"No matter what Tommy says," said Evashevski, "our boys feel that Oregon State is one of the strongest teams in the nation, and probably the fastest."

Only Michigan, he said, might compare in speed with the Beavers.

"If we win," concluded the Iowa coach with a wide grin, "I want all the credit. If we lose, I want the blame placed on my teacher at Michigan, Fritz Criesler."

Prothro was asked by Sports Editor Sec Taylor of the Des Moines Register if the Beavers learned anything in the regular season game with Iowa, which Iowa won 14-13.

"We learn something in every game and I'd say we got a real education in that one," cracked Prothro.

Prothro said a loss, no matter how close, need not foretell a score in a rematch. He pointed out that professional clubs can reverse close defeats with wide margin wins.

"Evy is a tough man to get ready for. He runs a new offense every year," Tommy continued, "Tomorrow will be a new year."

Members of the Iowa and Oregon State squads did not attend the luncheons. The players remained in their respective hotels.

Sunshine was promised for the 4 p. m. (CST) kickoff for the more than 100,000 fans expected to jam the bowl for the 11th meeting in the Big Ten-Pc series.

The game will be televised and radio broadcast nationally by the National Broadcasting Co.

Iowa, which lost only to Michigan during the season, remained a 9-point favorite to make it 10 out of 11 in the series for the Big Ten.

ing took a dive in Massachusetts this year.

Boxing commission statistics released Monday show that on a statewide basis there was a decline in everything except the number of timekeepers licensed. There were 12 timekeepers in 1955 and 12 in 1956.

Official figures show 26,522 paid "net" receipts of $287,409.82 for 52 shows in Massachusetts this year. In 1955, 94,199 paid a "net" of $436,827.23 to attend 61 programs.

The number of boxing clubs dropped from six to four, with only 195 licenses issued to fighters as compared with 238 in 1955.

cars ARE MY Line

by Al Parker

When the New Year rolls around and it comes time for making resolutions most people set impossible tasks for themselves. They're going to stop smoking—just like that—or they're going to start living strictly within their budget.

They're going to be nicer to the boss, or their secretary, or their wife or the kids.

But nobody, just nobody, takes more abuse from the average joker than the family car. And no one ever makes any resolutions to be nicer to the family buggy.

Around this time of the year, in the colder weather, the car needs more good resolutions lavished on it, too. So let's add the old hack to our list.

Most people know you shouldn't rare the engine while warming it up on cold mornings. That sends raw gasoline into the cylinders to wash away the protective oil. So a lot of people let the car idle in the morning, but this draws oil into the cylinders.

A good resolve is to warm up the engine for a minute or so at a fast idle, without racing it, and then to keep around 20 or 25 for the first few minutes after you move off. This should keep the ravages of winter away from your car.

Some people celebrate New Year's with a lot of toasts, and I don't mean white or whole wheat. They usually say that alcohol and gasoline don't mix. I put it another way: don't hick in your hack.

New Year's is a good time, too, to think about a new car, or at least a newer one. Gives you that "clean slate" feeling, and "clean" is the word to describe our current batch of used cars on the lot, too.

Speaking of a clean one owner car, check this "like new" 1956 Cadillac Coupe De Ville which graces the highway with its long, low lines and finished in a most tasteful 2-tone Ivory and Goddess Gold. Naturally, it's equipped with Cadillac's genuine accessories and everything is power controlled—such as: power brakes, power steering, power windows, power seat, etc. $4695

Women's fashions aren't the only things that change with the seasons—gasoline does too. Tell you about it next week.

Truman Doctrine Set Forth 10 Years Ago

Ike Wants Russia To Know
What It Can't Get Away WithBy J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Nearly 10 years ago President Truman, directing himself specifically to Communist pressure on Greece and Turkey, promulgated the idea that the United States should give direct aid to countries which would resist Russian expansion.

The idea was accepted by Congress and has since been expressed in various forms of aid, economic and military, totaling more than 50 billion dollars.

The Truman doctrine was interpreted at the time as the first step in building a worldwide line of resistance. It has now been extended until it is almost that. It is being extended again.

As a new year begins in which the East-West struggle is expected to continue unabated, President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles are working on a program for the Middle East designed to do several different but coordinated jobs in the Middle East.

1. They want Russia to understand that, by shipping arms and generally pressing her penetration of the area, she runs the risk of coming face to face with American armed force.

This is part of a long-standing Eisenhower-Dulles policy to keep the enemy informed about the things he can't get away with.

2. America wants the Middle Eastern states to understand that while she maintains a neutral stand between them, and between them and the European powers, she does not do so between them and Russia—that if they want her aid they can have it, and that they need not run the risks of engulfment attached to Russian aid.

3. America wants to establish a situation in the Middle East in which settlements can be approached, and is willing, to a certain extent, to run the risk of war to do so. The expected presidential request for standby power to use military force if necessary is a repetition of the administration's tactics toward the Formosa problem when Red China was threatening to attack. Although it cannot be proven that the promise to fight for Formosa produced the military lull, the lull has existed, and some negotiations with Red China have taken place.

4. The United States wishes to demonstrate to her European Allies that, although she opposes colonial tactics, she does not intend to subject them to the consequences of a sudden disruption of their access to the Middle East; that this country is fully aware of Russia's plan to put Europe under siege by snatching the Afro-Asian resources upon which the European industrial complex depends.

All these things and many more are involved as the President sits down today to consider the program with other national leaders.

Twice, before 1947, the United States had shouldered a major portion of the free world's military burdens. Part of the necessity for that was due to her failure to assume any real proportion of the political burdens.

The little political burdens which she began to pick up in 1947 have now become tremendous, and as Dulles says in his New Year's statement, more responsibilities are yet to be assumed.

So 1957 is not likely to bring the end in sight.

But 1956 brought a heartening display that the candle of freedom still burns brightly even under the Communist bushel. It brought new encouragement that the hard steps taken by the free world do point toward an attainable goal.

Fight Between Unions May Force Firm Out Of Business

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Rep. William Ayres (R-Ohio) said Monday some sort of federal legislation might be needed if the AFL-CIO merger fails to eliminate situations such as one that is pinching an Akron manufacturer. The manufacturer is Burt Manufacturing Co., which produces ventilators for commercial and industrial use. For 11 years, Burt has had a contract with the United Steelworkers, a CIO affiliate. Installation of such ventilators on construction projects is done primarily by members of the Sheet Metal Workers Union, an AFL affiliate which, says Ayres, does not recognize the Steelworkers at Burt Manufacturing.

Ayres said the Sheet Metal Workers have stopped work worth thousands of dollars to Burt by threatening to pull men from construction jobs if Burt equipment is used.

Ayres, who will be a member of the House Education and Labor Committee, said he will press for a full-scale congressional investigation of the situation and will ask that top national leaders of the merged AFL-CIO be called to testify. He said he urged the hearing in a communication to committee chairman Graham Barden (D-N.C.).

The AFL-CIO merger at national level has not yet been followed by merger at the state level in Ohio.

Son Of German Pilot
Joins U.S. Air Force

CINCINNATI (AP)—The son of a German World War II pilot Monday became a member of the U.S. Air Force.

Manfred Dulle enlisted in the Air Force here on his 17th birthday and officials said that, as of now, he probably is the youngest member of the service.

The youth's father, Capt. Peter Vogel, was killed in action during World War II. His mother later married Fred Dulle, who was stationed with the U.S. Air Force in Germany, and the family came to this country in 1947.

The lad, a native of Wiesbaden, Germany, said he knew he could not start pilot training until he is 19 "but I want to get in and get started as soon as possible."

He is expected to be sent to Lackland Air Base, San Antonio, Tex., for basic training.

and hear this from a bathtub sailor!

"My name's Bud. And from what the Old Man tells me, the U. S. Navy is all right. Besides having the biggest ships and the best equipment, he says the men of the U. S. Navy are the finest in the world. (Three guesses what he wants me to be when I grow up.)"

The U. S. Treasury is proud to join Bud in saluting the Navy as well as all the Armed Services that guard and protect our country. Many Service men and women are not only helping to preserve peace and prosperity for the land they love, but are also helping to insure happiness and security for themselves and their families by investing regularly in U. S. Savings Bonds.

This spirit of loyalty and forethought is a typical characteristic of the more than 40,000,000 Americans who now own more than $40,000,000,000 in Savings Bonds. Do you own your share?

Hungarians Observe Unhappy New Year's

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Hungarians observed an unhappy New Year's Eve Monday night.

The people had to be off the streets by the 10 p.m. curfew or before. In the homes, many of them cold, thousands brooded for their revolution dead or those who have sought exile.

There was no revelry in the restaurants, no gala opera, no roistering in the streets.

Bomber Struck Twice

The series of New York bomb scares were touched off last week when the mad bomber struck twice. Unexploded bombs planted by him were found in the New York Public Library Christmas Eve and in the Paramount Theater on Times Square early Friday morning.

There is a $26,000 reward for the bomber, who has planted at least 34 bombs since 1940. He has claimed no lives.

Bomb scares by the score have been received since Christmas. Half a dozen fake nonexplosive bombs have been planted by psychopaths. But so far as is known, the Mad Bomber was biding his time since the Paramount strike.

Germans Get Railways

4. Control of the Saar's postal and rail systems goes to Germany.

But until the economic transformation is completed by the deadline date of Dec. 31, 1959, the Saarlanders will continue to pay duty on goods imported from Germany. Free trade between France and the Saar will remain until 1960.

The former Mullins Youngstown Kitchens Co. was merged with American-Standard & Sanitary Corp. last Jan. 30.

ELECTRIC FURNACE CO. Kenneth U. Wirtz, president of the firm which makes industrial heat-treating furnaces, said the past year was considered satisfactory despite the fact that shipments and profits showed some decline because of a lower-than-normal backlog at the start of '56.

Mr. Wirtz predicted that if industrial expansions continue throughout the country as planned, we should have a better year in 1957 than last year. Electric Furnace Company's backlog at the present time includes both foreign and domestic orders.

The firm, which makes industrial heat-treating furnaces that are gas and oil-fired as well as electrical, said the company is constantly increasing its research facilities and may erect a new research building. Machine shop equipment was added during the past year and a storage building erected and the shipping room enlarged.

"Despite a highly competitive market, prospects for 1957 are encouraging," Mr. Wirtz concluded.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE. Speaking for Salem businessmen generally, C. of C. President A. G. Tame and Secretary Castle Smith, declared "Salem will continue to grow in 1957. Several of the city's industries are expanding their manufacturing space which will add employment for Salem people."

"Two or three large industries have announced they will build new plants in this general district which will help the area to expand in new housing and new highways. The Chamber is progressively following a planned program to attract new industry. We share Salem citizens' pride in their factories and in their city as a whole. We look to 1957 with overwhelming confidence."

of Premier Janos Kadar's Soviet-imposed government, sketched in a few sentences the grim picture for the New Year—widespread unemployment, coal shortages, inflation, back-breaking reconstruction to be undertaken and paid for.

Admitting the continued presence of the Soviet army "offends the national pride," it made plain that the regime does not feel safe among its own people without Russian protection. The Napszabadsag editorial, titled "New Year's Hopes," said:

"Our wounds are still fresh. Several thousand families mourn their dead. They also shed tears for tens of thousands who fled. We must struggle with grave economic difficulties. We can cope with these only through painful operations. We must close some factories which lack power and reduce production in several hundred others."

"We must live modestly. We can spend much less on our army and on the maintenance of the government. Consequently the next year cannot be a year of rising living standards. We regret to announce that neither increases in wages nor reductions of prices will be possible."

On the somewhat brighter side, it said, things will be a little better in farming areas because of the abolition of compulsory crop delivery quotas, enabling the peasants to enjoy a higher financial return.

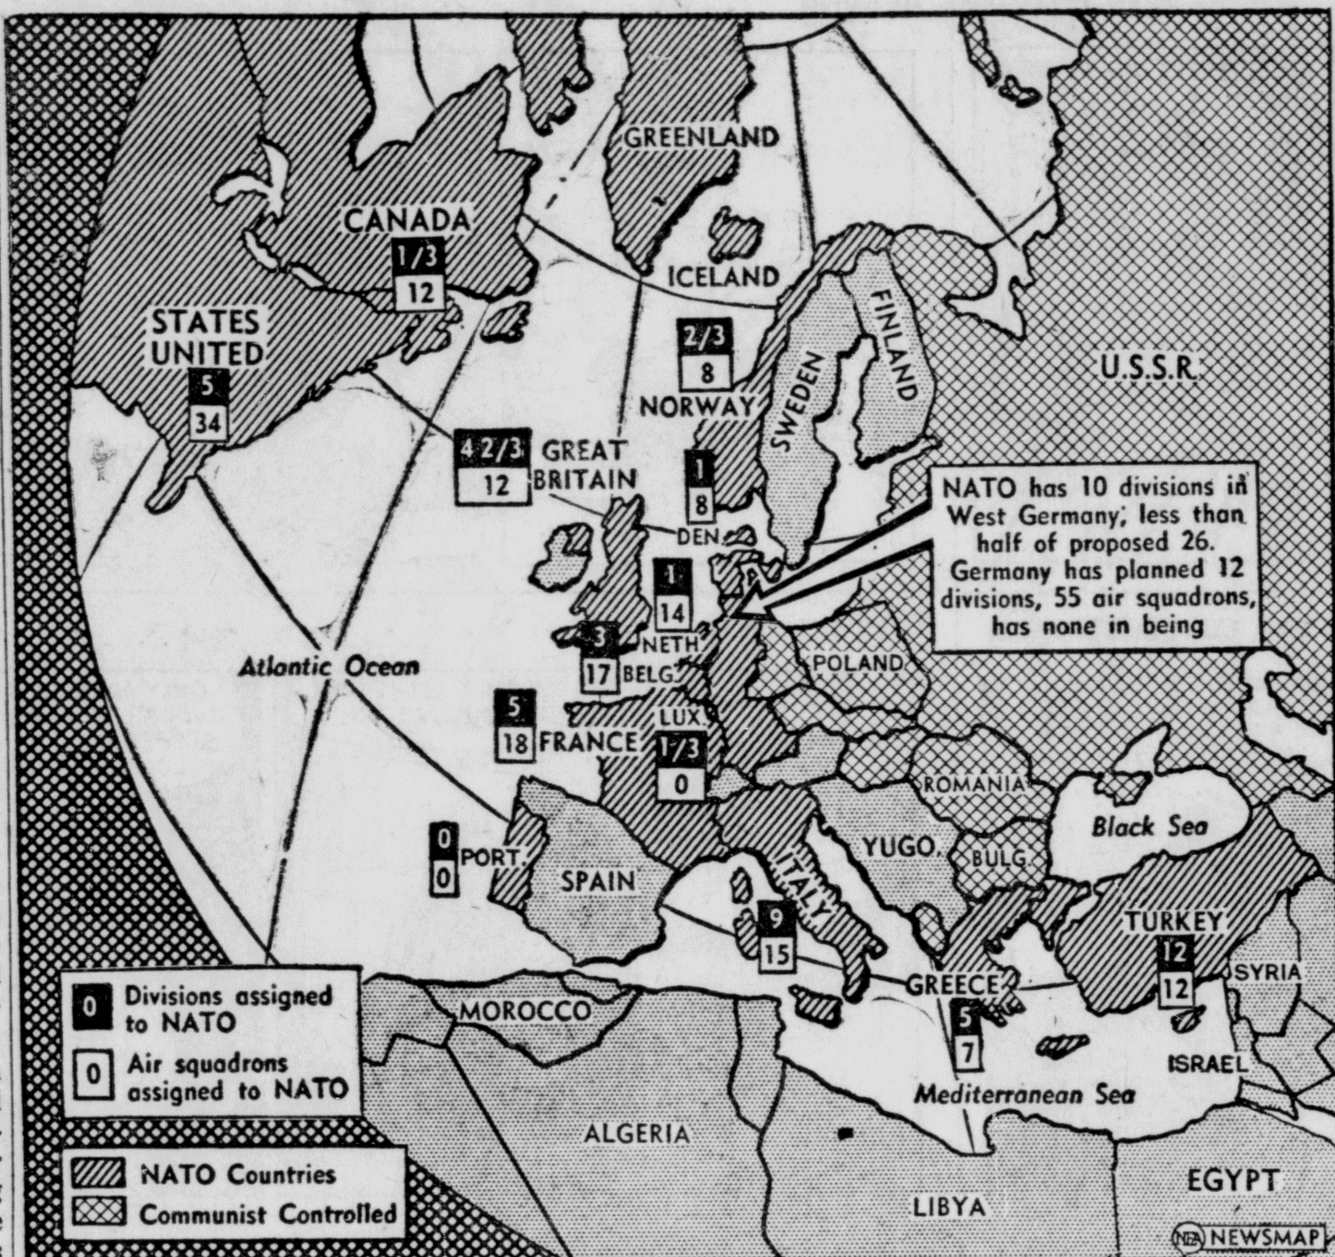

Soviet tanks, which have been standing guard for weeks directly at the doors of the government offices in the Parliament Building, withdrew a bit Monday to side streets nearby.

It was believed the withdrawal was to avoid embarrassing foreign envoys who would not want to pass through a ring of Russian armor to attend President Istvan Dobi's traditional New Year's reception Tuesday. But it was indicated major Western diplomats would snub the Dobi reception nevertheless.

The government refused to lift the 10 p.m. curfew Monday night, as it did on Christmas Eve. The reason given was that it was necessary to protect "peaceful citizens."

Those who did feel in the mood for celebration arranged to get in a few hours of dancing in crowded restaurants between 3 and 7 p.m. Theaters began their evening performances at 2 p.m.

Ike's Budget For New Year Calls For Hike In Spending, Little Room For Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Monday gave Republican congressional leaders a preview of his budget for the next fiscal year. They said afterwards it calls for increased spending, within income but with little or no room for tax cuts.

Some of those at the White House meeting estimated the planned spending for the fiscal year, beginning next July 1, at about 72 billion dollars. Another said 70 billions would "not be far off."

Spending in the current fiscal year is estimated at $69,100,000,000 and it has already been predicted that up to two billions more would be asked for defense spending than is being spent this year.

The White House meeting lasted from 9 a.m. until after 5:30 p.m., with a midday recess. Several Cabinet members sat in. These were other items reported to newsmen afterwards:

1. Eisenhower told the GOP leaders he wants Democrats to have a part in forming any new policy on the Middle East. He wants to hear from the Democrats at a bipartisan meeting Tuesday before making any decision on a possible request for standby authority to commit American troops to halt any aggression in the Middle East.

2. Eisenhower said he intends to press for action on civil rights legislation in the new Congress, which meets on Thursday. The party leaders said they would get behind this.

Some leading Democrats have come out against the proposal for granting the President advance fight-it-necessary authority for the Middle East.

Grains End Slightly Lower In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Most grains ended a little lower on the Board of Trade Monday when a slight expansion in selling orders toward the finish erased early gains.

Soybeans and corn ended with the weakest tone. Grainmen thought there might be some expansion in sales of cash corn and soybeans with the start of the new year.

Wheat held up best. This cereal was supported by announcement of a big wheat export deal with Brazil, plus news the administration would ask Congress for authority for economic aid to the Middle East.

Wheat closed 1/4 higher, corn unchanged to 1 cent lower, oats unchanged to 1/4 higher, rye unchanged to 1/4 lower, soybeans 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher and hard 25 to 40 cents a hundred pounds higher.

The Agriculture Department announced an agreement with Brazil under which that country will buy $138,700,000 worth of American surplus farm products. It includes approximately 1,800,000 tons of wheat to be taken over a three year period.

This did not have too much influence on wheat as the deal has been pending for a long time and has been discounted in the market.

Soybeans rallied early, apparently responding to the Middle East economic aid program news. But the gains were not held as many grainmen expected fairly liberal deliveries of cash beans on January futures Wednesday.

Eisenhower was reported to have stressed that majority support of both parties would be essential to the success of any policy move in the Middle East.

For that reason the President apparently refrained from even discussing the Middle East proposal with the Republicans Monday, telling them he wants to have the Democrats help shape the decision at Tuesday's conference.

While the President held out the prospect of a balanced budget, two of the GOP congressional leaders took a dim view about the possibility of tax reduction.

Senate Minority Leader Knowland (Calif) stressed that only domestic matters were in the picture at today's session, but he added that form an over-all point of view:

"I don't think there is likelihood of a tax reduction if we maintain a balanced budget and apply some payment on the debt."

House Minority Leader Martin (Mass) told a news conference that he looks for no important tax cuts unless there is a substantial

Another Bus Fired On In Montgomery

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Another racially integrated city bus was ambushed Monday by an assailant who, police said, apparently fired a pistol shot from a moving automobile.

Only three passengers, all white, and the driver were on the bus and no one was reported injured, although the large caliber bullet struck the bus just below driver W. H. Fullilove's seat.

It was the fifth bus shooting incident since segregation barriers were erased under federal court order in Montgomery 10 days ago. The same driver, Fullilove, has been involved in three of the five attacks.

He was operating a bus last Friday night when a sniper fired a bullet through the side of the vehicle, wounding a young Negro woman passenger, Mrs. Rosa Jordan, 22. Mrs. Jordan was struck in both legs.

Fullilove told bus company manager J. H. Bagley and investigating police officers that he saw a flash of gunfire from an oncoming car just before the bullet, believed to be .38 caliber, thudded into his bus Monday.

The attack occurred on the same run and the same street where Mrs. Jordan was shot but several blocks farther north. Fullilove's route goes through a predominantly Negro residential neighborhood and on to a factory area in the northern part of the city. The attack Monday came in a business district where several stores are located.

Bagley said the busline will continue "normal operations unless some other decisions are made later." Service after 5 p.m. has been halted through New Year's Day, however, on City Commission orders.

Ohioans Say They Were Forced Out Of Camp Refusal To Release Refugees Called A Misunderstanding

CAMP KILMER, N. J. (AP)—A church official today answered complaints of a Cleveland Hungarian group that they were thrown out of this reception center by saying the incident resulted from a "misunderstanding."

The United Hungarian Societies (UHS) of Cleveland claimed they were ordered from the camp recently on threat of military police action after they had travelled from Ohio to pick up 100 refugees. They said the order was given by Edward V. Savage, chief of the Church World Services at the camp.

Roland Elliott, director of immigration services of the Church World Services, said today the "misunderstanding" was caused by two factors:

1 — The Cleveland group had made no advance arrangements.
2 — They were not working through the Church Federation of Cleveland, "the only church agency with which our organization deals."

In Cleveland, Andrew Dono Jr., president of UHS, said Savage told them he could not release refugees under UHS sponsorship because "his organization did not recognize us. If this is true, then his is the only organization at Kilmer that does not give us recognition."

Finally, the UHS took 49 refugees back to Cleveland after Savage refused to let another 50 board buses, Dono said. Dono called a meeting this afternoon in Cleveland to discuss the incident.

In a statement, Elliott said:

"Their visit was badly timed and interfered with a number of other shipments of refugees. Only by stopping other shipments could we have done what they wanted us to do. This would be unfair to other groups."

Reporter Forgot To Read Her Own Story

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Martha Edminton, a reporter for the Middletown Journal, decided today she should read her own stories more carefully.

A couple of weeks before Christmas, Miss Edminton, noting a wave of pocket pickings, purse thefts and the like, enlisted the aid of the police department in doing a story.

The result was quite a spread in the Journal with a half dozen pictures, telling and showing how women are careless in leaving purses on counters, leaving them open or loosely carried on their shoulders.

Monday Miss Edminton went to the bank to make a deposit. She took all but $5 from her wallet but left the wallet on the bank counter. While she was making her deposit, someone picked up the wallet.
